

The Republican Majority in the 115th Congress Was Less Common

In only four out of the past 11 legislative sessions has a single party held control over the White House, House, and Senate.

